OUR STUDENT LEADERS

Robert Townson High School

Meet the leadership team of this Raby school for 2013. They are captains Tayla Kuru (from left), Jacob Marquardt and vice-captain Ebony Chu. (Unavailable for the photo was vice-captain Peter Trevett.) Tayla is keen to study physiotherapy at university and Jacob is considering a career in health, science or medicine. Ideally, he'd love to work as a sports nutritionist. Ebony is interested in psychology and Peter plans to become an Air Force mechanic.

Scholarships bring relief

By Ben Chenoweth

ROBERT Barrie's studies this year at the University of Western Sydney, Campbelltown, have been made easier thanks to a $2500 scholarship.

The 20-year-old bachelor of business and commerce bachelor of laws student (pictured) received the Ian Porter Scholarship from Campbelltown Council.

He said the grant was for local students involved in the community.

"I'm involved with Youth Solutions and the Youth Advisory Group and I'm also a Wollondilly youth member of parliament," he said.

"In 2009 I attended the Global Young Leaders Conference and received such amazing support from the community I just wanted to give back.

"More people should do community service because it helps the community as a whole."

The former Ambarvale Primary School and Thomas Reddall High School student said the UWS Campbelltown campus was an ideal choice for his studies.

"It's close to home plus the uni offered me more than just a degree," he said.

"By the time I finish I'll have more than just a piece of paper. This scholarship has really helped me."

■ Leumeah's Lana Nguyen also received a grant courtesy of the council. The bachelor of medicine and bachelor of surgery student received the $3000 Campbelltown Council Medical Scholarship.
